

FORT NELSON FIRST NATION COMMUNITY PLAN

Dreaming for Our Nation's Future, Together

Fort Nelson First Nation (FNFN) is about to start work on an update for our existing community plan "Reaching for Our Vision". This plan will guide how we as a Nation will move forward together in the future. The updated "Reaching for Our Vision" plan will use ideas and input from members on what our vision for the future is as a community and what programs, services and infrastructure we need to get there. The plan will cover many areas including health, culture, education, governance, social services, lands, environment and housing and infrastructure. The project will involve engagement with members throughout the planning process, which will be conducted over the next 5 months.

For any questions about the project, please contact Erin Longstaff, Project Coordinator by phone at 250-774-7257 or by email at erin.longstaff@fnnation.ca

The updated "Reaching for Our Vision Plan" will be important in guiding how FNFN will:

- ◆ Set a new future vision for our nation for the next 20 years.
- ◆ Understand and meet the growing and changing needs of all members now and in the future.
- ◆ Give our Chief and Council and staff a grassroots based plan to help implement services, programs and projects.
- ◆ Ensure we continue to grow as a strong, healthy, proud and self-reliant nation!

There will be several chances to participate in this project throughout the next 5 months through meetings, surveys and other engagement activities.

To start the project, we will be hosting a first community meeting later in November to give members more information on the project and to hear some of your initial thoughts and ideas on our nation's future. Stay tuned to the Fort Nelson First Nation Website and Facebook page for future updates on this meeting and other project related developments.
